About The Conference

The Sharda School of Pharmacy, Sharda University Agra, proudly announces a two-day international conference titled "Digital Transformation in Pharmacy: Advancing Learning and Professional Excellence", scheduled for 14th-15th February 2026 at Raman Hall, Sharda University Agra, India. The conference aims to showcase the transformative role of digital technologies in pharmaceutical education, research, healthcare delivery, and professional practice, providing a global platform for academicians, researchers, industry experts, healthcare professionals, regulatory authorities, and students to exchange knowledge and research findings.

The program will include keynote lectures by eminent speakers, oral and poster presentations, and interactive sessions focusing on digital learning innovations, artificial intelligence in drug discovery, digital health and telepharmacy, regulatory digitalization, quality assurance, and technology-driven professional development. By bringing together participants from academia, industry, and research organizations worldwide, the conference seeks to foster international collaboration, encourage innovation, and advance excellence in pharmacy education and practice.

About The School

Sharda University Agra, Uttar Pradesh, is a multidisciplinary institution of higher learning recognized by the University Grants Commission (UGC), committed to academic excellence, research innovation, and global engagement. The University offers a wide spectrum of undergraduate, postgraduate, and doctoral programs across health sciences, engineering, management, sciences, and humanities, with a strong emphasis on outcome-based education, experiential learning, and research-led teaching. Supported by modern infrastructure, digitally enabled classrooms, advanced laboratories, libraries, and innovation facilities, the University fosters an inclusive and intellectually stimulating academic environment. With a team of experienced faculty members, active industry partnerships, and growing national and international collaborations, Sharda University Agra promotes interdisciplinary research, entrepreneurship, and skill development. The University is dedicated to nurturing ethically grounded, globally competent graduates who are well prepared to address contemporary professional challenges and contribute meaningfully to societal and economic development.

Functioning within this vibrant academic environment, the Sharda School of Pharmacy is a center of excellence in pharmaceutical education and research. The School offers Pharmacy Council of India (PCI)–approved diploma, undergraduate, postgraduate, and doctoral programs aligned with national regulatory requirements and international standards. It features 21 state-of-the-art laboratories, a well-stocked library, a CCSEA-approved animal house for research, and a vast herbal garden with medicinal plants. With strong industry–academia collaboration, the School emphasizes the integration of theoretical knowledge, practical training, and digital learning approaches to develop globally competent pharmacy professionals capable of contributing effectively to healthcare, research, and the pharmaceutical industry.

About Indian Pharmacy Graduates Association (IPGA)

Established in 1973, the Indian Pharmacy Graduates Association (IPGA) is a national-level professional organization registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860, and affiliated with the Indian Pharmaceutical Congress Association (IPCA), the federal body comprising IPGA, IPA, IHPA, APTI, and AIDCOC. Recognized for its contribution to the pharmacy profession, IPGA holds income tax exemption under Section 80G(5)(VI) of the Income Tax Act, 1961, and represents over 6,100 life members across 21 state branches nationwide. For nearly five decades, IPGA has been committed to advancing the professional development, recognition, and status of pharmacy graduates in India through workshops, seminars, annual conferences, and other knowledge-sharing initiatives.

Guided by its mission to improve the professional standing of pharmacy graduates and secure their rightful place in pharmacy and allied professions, IPGA envisions quality pharmacy professionals delivering pharmaceutical services for the global healthcare system. The association promotes education and training, professional ethics, collaborative engagement among members, and advocacy with policymakers to ensure equitable recognition and opportunities for pharmacy professionals. The governance and strategic direction of IPGA are led by a distinguished Executive Council, includes.
