Authors are invited to submit their abstracts under general scopes of the conference in this format. The topics of the Conference include Science and Engineering systems comprising of complex physical systems, like fluid dynamics, thermodynamics, and materials science. It focuses on Multiscale and Multiphysics modeling in engineering, Control and optimization in cyber-physical systems and IoT. It includes Complex Systems in Biology and Pharmacology, modeling cellular and molecular networks, drug discovery, Epidemiological modeling. The scope is on Social Sciences and Human Systems, Agent-based and system dynamics models of social behaviour, and cultural evolution. It contains modeling economic complexity and financial markets. The conference includes topic on Networked societies: information diffusion and misinformation dynamics, Business, Management, and Organizational Complexity, adaptive management systems, Business ecosystems and innovation networks Risk analysis. The complex system includes Climate, Environment, and Sustainability Modeling coupled human-environment systems, Ecosystem dynamics, biodiversity, and resilience metrics, Sustainable resource management and circular economy modeling. Also, the topic contains Computational Methods and Emerging Technologies, Machine learning and AI in complex systems modeling, Hybrid models: integrating data-driven and mechanistic approaches, Stochastic processes, uncertainty quantification, and rare events, High-performance computing for large-scale simulations.

Abstracts should be of maximum 500 words and should not exceed one page including Figures/Tables/References. Use A4 paper size with Normal margin (top, bottom, left, and right margins 2.54 cm).

Figures and tables should be centred and located inside paper margins. Text should not wrap around figures or tables. Table captions (11-point font) should be centred above tables, and figure captions (11-point font) should be centred below figures.

The abstracts must be submitted through the submission link before the submission deadline. Authors will be notified of abstract acceptance after review.
